Professional Societies, Unions, and Guilds in which membership is maintained:

Article 2 Section 2. Qualifications for Classes of Members.

B. Associate. Any individual involved in cinematic sound, or a closely related field, while not qualifying for active membership may qualify for membership as an associate upon two-thirds (2/3) vote of the Board of Directors.

Associate members are entitled to the rights and privileges of an Active member and enjoy the social and academic activity of the Cinema Audio Society. However, an Associate member may not have the right to use the letters "CAS" after their name on Screen Credits, or in publicity of any kind, or the right to vote.

Article 2 Section 3. Admission to membership.

The following steps and procedure shall be taken for the admission to active membership in the Cinema Audio Society:

B. Applications for membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicant, and submitted to the membership committee, together with a payment in an amount equal to the initiation fee, current dues and assessments.

C. Upon recommendation of the applicant by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the Board of Directors, his or her name shall be published in the CAS Quarterly. If thirty (30) days after publication no written objections have been received, the applicant shall be accepted to membership.

D. In the event that written objections are received, it shall be the sole discretion of the Board of Directors to pass upon such objections and, if found to be unsubstantiated or prejudiced, the applicant shall be accepted to membership.

E. If applicant is refused membership, any payment submitted by the applicant shall be refunded.

F. Any CAS membership applicant applying for Active membership whose application is denied (regardless of former Associate Membership status, or new acceptance of Associate Membership status) must wait a period of 12 months before submitting a new application.

Article 3 Section 2. Other Members.

Associate, Honorary, Student and Retired Members may attend meetings and participate in and enjoy the social, educational, and academic activities of the corporation, but shall not have voting privileges.
